Words from Fr. Michael

Mass this weekend is a special commemoration. June 29th is the Solemnity of Saints Peter and Paul – it is the day when the church honors the martyrdom of these two great Saints. Both Saints are drawn from Jerusalem to Rome where they were martyred – Paul by the sword and Peter by crucifixion.

This Solemnity is the day when newly appointed archbishops are summoned to Rome to celebrate Mass with the Pope. At this Mass, in accordance with an ancient custom, a liturgical vestment called a pallium is conferred to new archbishops. This vestment is a woolen yoke that is worn around the neck during Mass – it is an ancient symbol that signifies the archbishop is “yoked” to Christ. As we hear in the Gospel according to Matthew, “Come to me all who are heavily burdened...my yoke is easy and my burden light.” The pallium symbolizes how all of the archbishops and the pope (who also wears a pallium) are to be unified by being in close communion with Christ and each other.

Since Hartford is an archdiocese, a new archbishop of Hartford makes a pilgrimage to Rome to receive the pallium as a sign of unity. Thus, Archbishop Coyne is making his pilgrimage this weekend.

Since the Solemnity of Peter and Paul falls on a Saturday this year (June 29th) and most parishes in the archdiocese do not celebrate Saturday morning Masses, Archbishop Coyne has asked that we observe the Solemnity of Peter and Paul on Sunday that all the archdiocese may be united in praying for unity in the Church and that he might be fittingly yoked to our Lord Jesus Christ in his ministry as our shepherd. In your charity, please pray a little extra for Archbishop Coyne this weekend that he will be truly yoked to Jesus Christ.
